experts on Russian economic intelligence. I explained ORR's function to them and went over its present and projected research program in detail. They in turn outlined their work in hand and arrangements were made for mutual exchanges along the lines of those now in effect between ORR. Inasmuch as the work of our two offices is complementary and closely interrelated, it is expected that great mutual advantage will be derived from the closest possible cooperation. Steps will be taken to procure Air Force assent to this arrangement.
